EXHIBIT F

CPNI Compliance (Sub-Contractor Personnel)

Companies that provide voice services are required to certify to the FCC that it complies with Customer Proprietary Network Information (CPNI) regulations. CPNI rules limit the circumstances under which voice service providers can sell additional services to customers. In addition, the CPNI rules prohibit disclosure of any protected information, so you may only discuss details of customer's voice service account with the customer or someone designated by the customer. Since you may have access to CPNI during the course of your interaction with a voice services customer, you are required to complete training on CPNI. This requirement may be fulfilled when you familiarize yourself with this memo and sign below.

CPNI Rules

CPNI is information regarding an individual customer's voice service, such as how many voice lines a customer has, how the service is arranged or provisioned, and information about to whom, where, how long and how often calls are made to or by a customer. Billing information and most information about a customer's voice service is also CPNI. The customer's name, address and phone numbers are not CPNI. All traditional telephone, as well as interconnected VOIP service providers, are required by the FCC to keep CPNI secure from unauthorized users. Individuals must not discuss or disclosure any customer's CPNI.

Doing so may be a breach of your agreement with _____ ,
(Insert your Sub-Contract Company Name)
and may otherwise result in work no longer being assigned to you or your company. Also, it could expose the voice provider to extremely high fines.

If you mistakenly use CPNI information when speaking with or about a voice provider's customer, or if you become aware of non-approved use of CPNI, immediately report it to management of _____ .
(Insert your Sub-Contract Company Name)

I acknowledge that I have read and understand this document.
